

Long Bio (Anna Bateman)

Anna Bateman is a Canadian soprano known for her clear tone, emotional depth, and ability to bridge classical vocals with modern storytelling. She has performed internationally across Europe, the USA, and Canada in concert halls, festivals, and special events, sharing music that blends lyrical expression with a warm, intimate presence. Her voice carries both strength and softness, allowing her to move between classical repertoire, cinematic arrangements, and contemporary vocal styles with ease. Her artistic work is rooted in heartfelt storytelling. Whether performing classical works or original music, Anna focuses on emotion, connection, and honesty. She has collaborated with respected musicians, composers, and producers, bringing a thoughtful and intentional approach to every project. Stars Remember, her newest single releasing December 5th, 2025, marks a meaningful moment in her musical journey. Produced by Dima Graziani with artwork by Kat, the track is a cinematic pop piece shaped by Anna's signature vocal clarity. The song is dedicated to anyone who has ever wondered if it's too late to dream again. It reflects courage, renewal, and the pull of long-held dreams that never fade. With each performance and release, Anna continues to shape a sound grounded in emotion and authenticity.

More can be found at annabateman.com.

